MINNESOTA ALLIANCE.

New Constitution Arranged by the President May Cause a Split.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—A special dispatch from St. Paul to the Tribune says: The refusal of President Donnelly at the closing session of the Minnesota Farmers' Alliance to provide in his new constitution for the election of delegates to the National meeting, to be held at Omaha in a few weeks, is regarded by many of the delegates as a well-contrived plan.

The past has been a great era of human life. It has the past, and the future is the past. It has the past, and the future is the past.

No one, I suppose, is satisfied with his or her life in the past; mistakes and misdeeds have occurred; failures have been often.

The past is the past, and the future is the future. It has the past, and the future is the past.

On the threshold of a new year, I stand before you, and I feel that I have a great deal to say to you.

On the threshold of a new year, I stand before you, and I feel that I have a great deal to say to you.

On the threshold of a new year, I stand before you, and I feel that I have a great deal to say to you.

On the threshold of a new year, I stand before you, and I feel that I have a great deal to say to you.

On the threshold of a new year, I stand before you, and I feel that I have a great deal to say to you.

On the threshold of a new year, I stand before you, and I feel that I have a great deal to say to you.
